

PRESS RELEASE

April 2010

PACIFIC is proud to announce the recent addition of Eduardo Schwank as their latest new Member to join the PACIFIC X-Team!

The talented Argentinean who is currently #61 on the ATP Tour, is back in full X-Force from some nagging injuries late in 2009, and will soon surpass his career high of #50 – without a doubt, on his way to being a legitimate Top #10 ATP Singles Player.

The 23-year old Schwank enjoyed an extremely successful Junior ITF Career – finishing #2 in 2004 year behind Gael Monfils.

Eduardo uses a complete package of PACIFIC Products – his X Force PRO is maximized for the ultimate in performance with: Poly Force 17 string, and X Tack PRO over-grip – traveling stylishly & securely in PACIFIC Racquet & Travel Bags.

Eduardo commented:

“The new PACIFIC racquets are simply awesome! From the very first time I tested one, I had perfect feeling, amazing spin & more power, plus such good control too! I know it also has a lot to do when combined with the Poly Force string, because I tried some other brands of strings, and while OK, not at all the same performance! It is as if the string and racquet were made for each other! PACIFIC Products when used together are so perfect for me! Plus, I never until now, found an over-grip with such great traction and durability.

No wonder X Tack PRO has won so many Awards. I now have the best equipment to compete on the ATP World Tour!”

As the current No. 4 in Argentina, Eduardo is a part of the Argentinean Davis Cup Team.

Together with the power of the PACIFIC “X”, Eduardo Schwank will rule the tennis court!
